

BIBLIOGRAPHY

Want to learn more; here are just a few books that you can use in your classroom to help teach your kids about History. You can find many of these books in the public library as well as your school library.

History for Kids:

Dakota Dugout, 1985, Ann Turner (grandmother's story of life on a 19th century homestead).

Sarah, Plain and Tall, 1985, Patricia MacLachlan (story of accepting a stepmother on a 19th century farm).

The White Stallion, 1982, Elizabeth Shub (a girl's adventure on the trail west).

Yonder, 1988, Tony Johnstone (picture book of life on a 19th century farm).

Read Aloud History:

Willow Creek Home, 1985, Janice Jordan Shefelman (fictional account of a German family homesteading in 1847 Central Texas).

Milk, Meat Biscuits, and Terraqueous Machine, 1987, Mary D. Wade (biography of Gale Borden, inventor, resident of early Galveston, and founder of the Borden Milk Co.).

New Life, New Land, 1986, Ann Fears Crawford (short biographies of women of early Texas).

Little House on the Prairie series, all by Laura Ingalls Wilder (stories of a pioneer family told from a girl's point of view; many individual chapters stand alone).

Caddie Woodlawn, 1935, Carol Ryrie Brink (19th c. tomboy adventures).

Life on the Ranch, 1999, Bobbie Kalman, Crabtree Publishing Company. (Short, informative text with great pictures).

Women of the West, 2000, Bobbie Kalman, Crabtree Publishing Company. (Short, informative text with great pictures).

Early Stores and Markets, 1992, Bobbie Kalman, Crabtree Publishing Company. (Short, informative text with great pictures).